

Hello,

It's that time of year again when you need to start thinking about your company's health insurance plan, but is your current plan still right for you? Are the insurance costs eating up your benefits budget? Do you wish you had more control over your company's health plan? If so, it might be time to have a conversation with your broker about a self-funded employee benefit plan.

Rather than paying a hefty premium that continues to increase every year, with a self-funded plan you only pay for the services that you need! At Significa Benefit Services, we will work with you to determine if a self-funded employee benefit plan is the right path for your company.
